ANNOTATION

We have our duties on the preparation of young people for military service and military-patriotic education. In due time, great attention was paid to training of young people for military service and organization of military-patriotic education in all schools, created opportunities in educational institutions of Uzbekistan. One of the important tasks of the state is the upbringing of these young people in the military-patriotic spirit, which is based on the preparation of the country's youth to serve in the Armed Forces of the Republic of Uzbekistan, the upbringing of love for the army and the army. In this article, views and comments will be made on the pedagogical background of military training of senior students of general secondary schools, the main role and role of schools in this regard.

Keywords: military service, importance of schools, armed forces, Army, patriotism, development.

INTRODUCTION

It is necessary to be constantly ready to protect the motherland, it means the duty of real brave sons. Graduates of the school, future homeland defenders should be young people with higher education, full-fledged, with high moral and moral principles. In school, general and vocational education institutions should not put the issue of whether to prepare young people for military service or not. It turns out that the shorter the service life, the more difficult the service itself, the higher the preparedness of the army.

Improvement of physical qualities, the formation of skills for dealing with weapons will allow the confidence of the guy to be called to service, to believe in his own strength, opportunities. Thanks to the integrated lessons of life safety lessons and Physical Culture, using technical tools in the extracurricular sector and circles, students acquire skills of accurate shooting, endurance, discipline, improve sports skills. All these qualities are necessary when serving in the ranks of the Armed Forces. In particular, I find it effective and useful to note that young men of Call age make various devices for improving the quality of shooting from a pneumatic rifle with their own hands. For example, a badge made by schoolchildren in school and used in biathlon, especially in combination with ski sport, increased interest in shooting lessons.

To learn the rules of targeting, the device will allow you to have strong targeting skills in the first stage of shooting training in a short time. Shooting classes of students are based on the general rules of the methodology of other types of Sports Shooting. However, in integrated lessons it has its own characteristics, in particular: shooting after intense skiing or cross-country races in conditions of high blood pressure and in conditions of high emotional excitation. Now in shooting classes, high demands are placed on the scientific and methodological maintenance of the training process, the data of which create the necessary conditions for the management of the athlete's training.

Carrying out preparatory work with the term conscripts, in the pedagogical community of the school, in conversations with parents, I emphasize and assure you that it is necessary to prepare them for military service and that it is impossible to cancel. And in the near future, the service is carried out not on a contractual basis, but on a call basis, and therefore it is necessary to solve the question of how to ensure the readiness of our guys for military service. Students are interested in military service. The students of our school serve in military service, choose the profession of employees of military and internal affairs bodies.

Today, in many schools, work is carried out to educate students in the military-patriotic spirit. Any state needs healthy, energetic, courageous, courageous, disciplined, enterprising citizens who, if necessary, will protect it even without thinking. The most important element of the upbringing of young people should be the formation of feelings of patriotism, since without it a harmonious and comprehensive development of the individual is impossible. Therefore, it is necessary to pay special attention to the upbringing of schoolchildren in the military-patriotic spirit. At events dedicated to the formation of emotions in the younger generation, children get acquainted with such concepts as humanism, decency, self-esteem. In addition, students study the political system of their homeland, the structure of state institutions and similar topics. In this article, we will tell you what is the military-patriotic upbringing of children in school today and what it means.

The main goal of educating young people in the military-patriotic spirit of course, lies in the formation of patriotism and feelings, loyalty to the motherland. At the same time, these activities should not be neglected such tasks as the preparation of boys for the future service in the Army, as well as increasing the level of endurance and physical training of girls and boys in the army. Also, military-patriotic education in children evokes a sense of pride in their homeland, a sense of respect for the history of their state. Finally, such activities serve to form an active civil position in the young members of the society and the ability to be in a relationship with responsibility to his word, approach responsibly to his work.

The reputation of the motherland, national prosperity cannot be determined endlessly by the achievements of the past, because the oil and gas extraction complexes that provide the bulk of budgetary revenues, nuclear weapons that guarantee our security, industrial and communal infrastructure – all this. Most often it was created by Soviet specialists, others, in other words, we did not create. The life of society today sets the most serious tasks for the upbringing and upbringing of the new generation. The state needs people who are healthy, courageous, courageous, initiative, disciplined, literate, ready to study, work for his benefit, if necessary, protect him. One of the main tasks of the school is the upbringing of the future generation. The most important component of the educational process is the formation and development of feelings of patriotism. If this component does not exist, it is impossible to talk about the upbringing of a truly harmonious person. Proceeding from these tasks, the importance of educating young people in the military-patriotic spirit is growing, because exactly this is a significant contribution to the training of skillful and strong defenders of our country, and in some cases a decisive one.

As a concept and form of working with the younger generation – it is for each of us to know our roots, the fate of our homeland, to be proud of the deeds of our contemporaries' ancestors, to realize historical responsibility for what is happening. In society and in the state, the upbringing of traditions is closely connected and inextricably linked with the upbringing of patriotism. Such traditions as courage, loyalty to military duty, endurance, mutual assistance, diligence, readiness for self-sacrifice, which make up the indispensable qualities of the young man, have passed from generation to generation, strengthened and multiplied. The upbringing of young people in the spirit of heroism-patriotism, their preparation for the defense of homeland has become an important direction of state policy and will remain so. Education satisfies one of the most important needs of a person and is a social investment that will lead to an increase in material production in the future. This, along with raising the standard of living of our present generation, serves to increase the responsibility of future generations. It is no secret that today the task of educating the younger generation in the spirit of patriotism is especially relevant. Who are his children, if there is no teacher, with the study of their lineage, the history of the native land, the native land, the upbringing of a citizen who not only loves his homeland, but also is politically cultured, critically thinking. The motherland needs people who are able to make a worthy contribution to the memory of our great predecessors.

Due to its peculiarity, military service falls into the category of the most dangerous professions. It requires a person to be socially and psychologically ready to act in an extreme situation characterized by a threat to life and health, lack of time to make decisions, great physical and mental strain. The current situation in the field of preparedness of young people before the term conscription is characterized by a number of negative factors. The main of them are the following: a decrease in the indicators of Health and physical development of the majority of conscripts, a weak system of preparation for military service, insufficient volume of sports training, the absence of a single coordinated program. Military-patriotic education; military practical and technical sports are not sufficiently developed. One of the main reasons for the low quality of upbringing of the younger generation remains a weak level of the spiritual and psychological state of the majority of citizens, which is the lack of conscious motivation, as well as a weak material and technical base. Education of patriotism. First, the fact that it is not sufficiently funded at the regional and city levels; the topics of patriotism should be covered more in the media.

If we create a material-technical and normative-legal base of military-patriotic work, provide it with material, personnel, methodological aspects, we increase the number of young people involved, that is, we reduce the risk groups of young people who remain in their own condition. Devices that can be engaged in extremist activities, the use of drugs. In the military-patriotic education, the day of mass defense and sports-health pensions, military sports games, military sports holidays, homeland defenders also play an important role. Thus, the three main principles that are formulated should form the basis of the work of educating and preparing young people in the military-patriotic spirit until they are called: this is the popularity, consistency and unity of organizational activity. All this is carried out in order to achieve the main goal – to educate young people in the military-patriotic spirit, to improve the quality of pre-call preparation. Military-patriotic education is closely related to education patriotism. Patriotism is one of the deepest human feelings, impregnated for many centuries, maybe thousands of years, the best national traditions, moral norms, devotion to the ideals of their people, love for the Motherland, the desire to serve its interests, after that. develop, protect it from any intruder. If love for the motherland is the appearance of patriotism,

The protection of homeland is the duty and duty of the Patriot. This is his embodiment and participation in history, nature, achievements. Attractive and inseparable problems with its uniqueness and inseparability, which form the moral and moral basis of the individual, form his civil position as well as the need for worthy, self-sacrifice, self-sacrifice, service to the motherland. Patriotism represents the basis of social and state systems, the moral and moral basis of their viability and effective functioning of citizenship. Military patriotism is a technology of bilateral education, armed with all available forms of moral and psychological qualities, the most important of which is necessary for a young citizen, both a future homeland defender and an absolutely peaceful person.
