INTRODUCTION

In the process of modernizing society, the importance of active participation of young people in the life of society through the development of scientific potential and obtaining a decent education is also confirmed in the strategy "Uzbekistan - 2030". In particular, it is planned to introduce new educational programs aimed at developing in young people new skills necessary for a modern economy and entrepreneurship, as well as to create youth small industrial zones that will allow the implementation of entrepreneurial projects. These initiatives serve to improve our country's economy by creating new jobs and increasing production while further promoting entrepreneurship among youth. Supporting social and cultural projects aimed at increasing the personal potential of young people is an important part of the strategy. The President emphasized the need to create the necessary conditions for the creative and cultural self-expression of boys and girls. At the same time, supporting young families and solving the problem of divorce is also the focus of the government of Uzbekistan. In this area, counseling programs are offered aimed at strengthening family values. In his New Year's greetings, President Shavkat Mirziyoyev noted that these factors are important for achieving a strong economy and improving the lives of the population. Attracting foreign investment is important to stimulate economic growth and provide the necessary capital for business expansion. The President emphasized the importance of developing science, innovation and information technology, including green and digital technologies. Creating new jobs and increasing household incomes are among the priorities. The foreign economic policy of Uzbekistan is aimed at attracting foreign investment and the effective implementation of modern technologies through the development of international cooperation. In particular, in 2022-2024, our country plans to implement investment projects with a total value.

In the framework of international cooperation in the fight against corruption, the important initiatives of Uzbekistan, the presentation of awards by the President in this area, the implementation of consistent legal and institutional reforms in cooperation with the UN, the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development and other prestigious international organizations deserve praise. A striking example of our opinion is that our country has adopted an anti-corruption law, created a corresponding agency, and is widely introducing tools aimed at ensuring open and transparent activities of government bodies.

The systemic reforms being implemented in our country will continue in the Year of Support for Youth and Business. Prospective work aimed at further developing the economy, increasing social stability, strengthening international relations, and improving the well-being of the population will continue to be improved. As the President noted, all forces and capabilities will be fully mobilized to build a new life, a New Uzbekistan. Analyzing the achieved achievements and milestones, we can say with confidence that the method of work of the President of our country is aimed at resolving any issue relating to the life of the state and society, primarily taking into account opinions, demands and wishes. of our people, is completely justified today. Indeed, today such principles as “walk in the neighborhood”, “enter the people, listen to their pain”, “participate in their concerns”, “solve problems on the spot” have become the main criteria in the activities of all civil organizations. servants.

Today, the leader of our country is studying the results of reforms in terms of socio-economic development of the regions, conducting open dialogues with representatives of various spheres. In particular, open dialogues were held with representatives of the healthcare sector, youth and entrepreneurs. At these meetings, current issues of industry development were discussed. Suggestions from medical workers, youth and entrepreneurs were heard. Important initiatives have been taken to address their concerns. Of course, such open dialogues serve to further accelerate reforms in all areas and sectors, eliminate systemic problems, and find timely solutions to current issues.

Based on the experience gained through the action strategy, a development strategy for New Uzbekistan for 2022-2026 was developed, which describes what the development trends of Uzbekistan will be in the near and medium term, priorities in this regard and goals are provided.

The development strategy, based on the principle “For Human Dignity”, serves as an important factor in improving the well-being of the population, the comprehensive development of the state and society, the modernization of our country, and the liberalization of all spheres of life.

The term "educational system" became widespread in connection with the study of the phenomena of pedagogic reality in a systematic and structural direction. According to the meaning of this methodological category, the educational process is considered a system. The foreign language learning process, carried out within a certain time and space, is an open (no clear limit) system and is expressed in the published foreign language "learning-methodical complex". The educational system consists of such categories as the intended goal, the content to be formed, and the method used (each of them will be covered in separate chapters). The method of teaching a foreign language means the set of activities of the teacher and the student, which ensures the achievement of the practical, general educational, educational and developmental goals of teaching a foreign language. The term "method" is used in the sense of "set of educational methods" and "direction of education". The first is used in the theory of education (for example, methods of teaching oral speech, methods of teaching pronunciation), and in the second sense, we find it in works on the history of teaching methods.
