INTRODUCTION

When a child saw that his father had lost his hand in front of him and his mother had lost his breast, he began to chant slogans that did not help him. The only distrust is that sooner or later, when he loses his father and mother, he will "destroy" his brother as well. The fate of his homeland, which was swaying in the dust, is now on his shoulders. His only "civic culture" now is to lose someone.

Yes, there are many children in neighboring countries who are homeless, homeless, without relatives, who have lost their language, religion, beliefs and, most importantly, their identity in difficult conditions like children. On the world map, these countries are not citizens who reflect the structure of civil society, but slaves, who, in turn, are "puppets" without rights. If necessary, it will be recognized in this view. In fact, civic education is a reflection in the minds of the younger generation of people belonging to a particular country, place of residence, and on this basis to form a high level of civic culture, self-sacrificing culture, self-sacrificing culture to strengthen the independence of the state. , a concept that requires special attention to be brought up as a humane person with a deep understanding of his duties and responsibilities.

Because the formation of civic culture at a young age ensures their active participation in socio-economic development.

Thus, in the context of today's civic culture, the ideas of our people about the moral and legal corner, the national spirit, high human qualities, spirituality, the struggle for a free and prosperous homeland, a free and prosperous life, sincere goals and aspirations. In the process of teaching social sciences and humanities, the students' commitment to the motherland, the people, the nation, the interests of the country and the workers over their own interests, and the desire and need to be a «Active citizen», «Perfect citizen», «independent citizen».

- To instill in every student the feeling of being a citizen who creates a free and prosperous homeland, a free and prosperous life, respects it and protects it from various disasters:
- Achieving students' confidence and faith in the national idea and national spirituality, while recognizing the interdependence of civic culture with the national idea and national spiritual values;
- Considering the fact that civic culture is a leading factor in the development of human humanity, it is a practical goal to create in students the qualities of civic culture, such as humanism, patriotism, self-awareness, faith and belief.

This means that our children have not only a weapon in their hands, but also school textbooks that provide spiritual and educational food, works of enlightened writers, and higher educational literature, including new pedagogical technologies. Of course, we should always be proud of that.

LITERATURE ANALYSIS AND METHODOLOGY

According to the "Independence: Explanatory Scientific-Popular Dictionary", the term "citizenship" originated in ancient Greece and Rome, but its original meaning was later translated into French "situaïn", English "citizen", Russian "citizen" and "goro". he meant a free man from the tyrannical peasant, tyrannical feudal relations. After the independence of our country and the beginning of the centuries-old aspirations of our people to build freedom, liberty, a democratic state governed by the rule of law and a just, civil society, the word began to be used from a humanitarian point of view. Therefore, "citizenship" means the legal or political-legal protection of a person and the protection of his legitimate interests within and outside the state, "the dictionary states.

- Equality of language and religion of all nationalities and ethnic groups living in the territory of our country;
- Equality between men and women;
- Equality before the law of citizens, regardless of their personal or social origin, property or social status;
- The legal status of citizens is the same, regardless of how they are received;
- The establishment of a single citizen on the territory of Uzbekistan;
- The law prohibits "dual citizenship";

- The legal order of acquisition and termination of citizenship is resolved; - The order of change of citizenship of children in case of change of citizenship of parents is clearly defined;
- Unit of the system of state bodies adopting and checking the execution of legal acts on civil matters;
- Clear clarity of the procedure for appealing decisions on civil matters;
- The types and nature of international treaties on citizenship are clearly defined in the law.

REFLECTIONS AND SUGGESTIONS

The victory of Nodirbek Abdusattorov over Magnus Carlsen, the absolute owner of the world crown in the history of chess, is the main basis for raising the civic culture of young people in our legal society "On State Youth Policy". This can be seen in the results and championships of our youth in the international arena in various fields. The decree on the state program "Our Youth Future" will be implemented by the state.

First of all, when it comes to civil culture and responsibility in the development of civil society, first of all, it has always been a dream of many to glorify human interests by our President. In particular, the conceptual ideas "Human interests take precedence over everything", "The people should serve the people, not government agencies", "If the people are rich, the state will be rich and powerful" - the reforms at the new stage of development of Uzbekistan He brought the people closer to the leadership. The leadership, on the other hand, has increased its responsibility to the people. If we look more closely, we can see that the new stage of national development of Uzbekistan is taking place in the process of formation and development of civil society. The main directions of the "Strategy of Action", the basis for the formation of civil society, the scientific and methodological basis for the establishment of civil society, the institutions of citizenship, civil society institutions, the right to vote, the rule of law and the rule of law. introduction of modern forms of information presentation. New phrases such as "e-government", "public relations", "virtual reception", "public receptions", "critical analysis", "strict discipline and personal responsibility", "road map", "socio-economic development sectors" is a master map of its content and application.

Another thing is that the increase in the number of quality food products in the markets will, of course, form a link in the chain of civil society. Because there is a question of the stability of politics over economics. Thus, modern mechanisms of business support by the head of our state, the principle of "every family is an entrepreneur", reducing the state's participation in the economy, protecting the rights of private property and further strengthening its sustainable position will make small business and private entrepreneurship more attractive. and reforms such as the improvement and optimization of customs policy and the reduction of the tax burden.

CONCLUSION

Thus, the road map of the future of New Uzbekistan always sets a goal for the society of leaders, which is guiding the people to form a civic culture and increase civic responsibility of our civil society. At the same time, in building a democratic civil society rooted in spirituality, of course, it is necessary to continue the high-level reforms of our President. To date, deepen social reforms

Efforts to increase employment and real incomes also complement the topic we have been working on. Legalization of relations in the "consumer basket", improvement of the system of social protection and health care, socio-political development of women, socio-political development of women, to determine the income necessary for a decent life on the basis of advanced foreign experience implementation of targeted programs on the development and modernization of road transport, engineering and communications and social infrastructure to improve the living conditions of the population, the adoption of state programs "Prosperous village" and "Build a neighborhood" and these include the implementation of fundamental changes in the system of preschool, general secondary, vocational and higher education, the development of innovative approaches to science. Another thing is that we all know that a society rooted in corruption and greed will, of course, collapse and fail to flourish. The laws we can control at the moment are anti-corruption - civil society.

proved to be a stable condition for development.

It is gratifying that free elections in the process are recognized as the main feature of civil society, the accountability of senators and deputies to the electorate based on international electoral standards in the legislation of Uzbekistan, the election of elected state bodies.

responsibility, mass media in the conduct of free elections

It is safe to say that the increase in the role of the media and, ultimately, the adoption of the Electoral Code in Uzbekistan will be the basis for the NEW UZBEKISTAN trend to take its place on the world stage.
